

supporting Labour Market Attachment

A Process Model for Course or Program Development

Description:

To maximize the transfer of learning, all basic training programs should be developed using a thorough planning process like the one attached. Begin with the reason for training and plot the steps you need to take right through to evaluating the learning results.

A Process Model for Course or Program Development

